

Mika Yamaguchi

Senior Lecturer of Japanese

East Asian Languages and Literatures

Yale University

Mika Yamaguchi currently teaches Japanese courses at Yale University. Due to COVID-19, she has been teaching remotely by using Zoom since March 2020. Previously she taught all levels of Japanese courses at various institutions including Konyang University in South Korea, Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia, and Michigan State University. Her research interests include Japanese pedagogy, second language acquisition, and integrating technologies in language learning. She has been teaching the summer intensive Japanese courses at Sophia University since 2015. She received Ph.D. in Japanese language education from Konkuk University in South Korea and M.B.A. from University of Georgia.